Moderately Conservative	I am willing to accept low risk to my initial principal, including low volatility, to seek a modest level of portfolio returns.
Moderate	I am willing to accept some risk to my initial principal and tolerate some volatility to seek higher returns, and understand I could lose a portion of the money invested.
Moderately Aggressive	I am willing to accept high risk to my initial principal, including high volatility, to seek high returns over time, and understand I could lose a substantial amount of the money invested.
Significant Risk*	I am willing to accept maximum risk to my initial principal to aggressively seek maximum returns, and I understand I could lose most, or all, of the money invested.

EXTENDED HOURS TRADING

You should consider the following points before engaging in trading outside of regular market hours.

Risk of Lower Liquidity. Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and sell securities. Generally, the more orders that are available in a market, the greater the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity it is easier for investors to buy or sell securities, and as a result investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities purchased or sold. There may be lower liquidity in extended hours trading as compared to regular market hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all.

Risk of Higher Volatility. Volatility refers to the changes in price that securities undergo when trading. Generally, the higher the volatility of a security the greater its price swings. There may be greater volatility in extended hours trading in extended hours trading than in regular market hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all, or you may receive an inferior price in extended hours trading than you would during regular market hours.

Risk of Changing Prices. The prices of securities traded in extended hours trading may not reflect the prices either at the end of regular market hours or upon the opening the next morning. As a result, you may receive an inferior price in extended hours trading than you would during regular market hours.

Risk of Unlinked Markets. Depending on the extended hours trading system or the time of day, the prices displayed on a particular extended hour trading system may not reflect the prices in other concurrently operating extended hours trading systems dealing in the same securities. Accordingly, you may receive an inferior price in one extended hours trading system than you would in another extended hours trading system.

Risk of News Announcements. Normally, issuers make news announcements that may affect the price of their securities after regular market hours. Similarly, important financial information is frequently announced outside of regular market hours. In extended hours trading, these announcements may occur during trading, and if combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a security.

Risk of Wider Spreads. The spread refers to the difference in price between what you can buy a security for and what you can sell it for. Lower liquidity and higher volatility in extended hours trading may result in wider than normal spreads for a particular security.

Should you decide to engage in trading outside of normal market hours (9:30 AM to 4:00 PM Eastern Time), you understand the risks disclosed above and acknowledge the Firm and its affiliates are not responsible for losses sustained due to trading outside of normal market hours, including any inability to enter an order, cancel an order, execute a trade or close a position.

Your relationship with the Firm is based on trust and confidence. We recognize our obligation to keep information about you secure and confidential. It is important for you to know that we do not sell your information to anyone. We restrict access to non-public personal information about you to those representatives and employees who need to know that information to provide products or services to you. We also maintain physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to guard your non-public personal information. This notice describes how we handle your financial information that we collect while conducting our business. We collect information about you (such as your name, address, social security number, assets and income) from our discussions with you, and from documents that you may deliver to us in the course of providing services to you. We may use this information to open an account for you or to process a transaction for your account. In order to service your account and effect your transactions, we may provide your personal information to firms (such as a mutual fund company or custodial broker-dealer) that assist us in servicing your account and have a need for such information, as permitted by law. We may also disclose such information to FINRA, the Securities & Exchange Commission, or any other regulatory agencies that oversee our business activities.

PAYMENT FOR ORDER FLOW AND ORDER ROUTING

Pursuant to Rule 607, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") requires that all broker-dealers disclose their policies regarding the receipt of payment for order flow; the nature of order routing policies for orders subject to payment for order flow, and the degree to which these orders can receive price improvement. The SEC defines payment for order flow broadly to include monetary payments, reciprocal agreement services, credits and rebates provided by market centers, or any other benefit that results in compensation to a broker-dealer.

Precision Securities LLC ("Precision Securities") routes orders to market centers, including national securities exchanges, alternative trading systems, electronic communications networks, and broker-dealers that offer credits for certain types of orders while assessing fees for other types of orders. These market centers may execute orders principally or on a net basis where the market center receives compensation that is embedded in the price of the execution. In some cases, the credits offered by a market center exceed the charges assessed, such that a market center makes a payment to Precision Securities in relation to orders directed to the market center. Such remuneration, if any, is considered compensation to us. In other instances, Precision Securities may receive payments for directing order flow to a particular broker-dealer or market center, including volume discounts and/or other direct compensation based on factors inclusive of the profitability of the order flow.

Precision Securities also routes customer orders to its broker-dealer affiliate Clear Street LLC which receives compensation for executing Precision orders. Clear Street executes orders on an agency, risk principal and/or principal capacity, including on a net basis. When Clear Street executes orders on a net basis, Clear Street receives embedded compensation on the trade which is equal to the difference between the price at which it accumulated shares as principal and the price at which the order routed by Precision Securities is executed. In all instances, the net price will be either at or better than the prevailing national best bid or offer ("NBBO"). Clear Street may receive rebates or other payment for order flow when it routes orders that it receives from Precision Securities to national securities exchanges, alternative trading systems, wholesale market makers and other broker-dealers. These market centers may also execute orders as principal or on a net basis. The compensation that Clear Street receives is in addition to the commission that clients pay to Precision on the execution.

Precision Securities routes orders to different market centers in a manner consistent with our obligation to seek best execution for customer orders. Under these arrangements, orders are routed to an exchange or market maker that matches or improves the then-current national best bid or offer for the particular stock.

If you have any questions concerning order flow payments or best execution, please contact us or review the SEC's website at <http://www.sec.gov/answers/bestexec.htm>.

BUSINESS CONTINUITY PLAN SUMMARY

The Firm has developed a Business Continuity Plan on how we will respond to events that significantly disrupt our business. Since the timing and impact of disasters and disruptions is unpredictable, we will have to be flexible in responding to actual events as they occur. With that in mind, we are providing you with the following business continuity plan information.

Contacting Us- If after a significant business disruption, you cannot contact us as you usually do at (858) 947-3635, you should call our toll-free number (877) 866-9111 which will be routed to an office location that has not been disrupted. You may also go to our web site at www.centerpointsecurities.com.

Our Business Continuity Plan- We plan to quickly recover and resume business operations after a significant business disruption and respond by safeguarding our employees and property, making a financial and operational assessment, protecting the firm's books and records, and allowing our customers to transact business. In short, our business continuity plan is designed to permit our firm to resume operations as quickly as possible, given the scope and severity of the significant business disruption. Our business continuity plan addresses: data backup and recovery; all mission critical systems; financial and operational assessments; alternative communications with customers, employees, and regulators; alternate physical location of employees; critical supplier, contractor, bank and counter- party impact; regulatory reporting; and assuring our customers prompt access to their funds and securities if we are unable to continue our business.

Varying Disruptions- Significant business disruptions can vary in their scope, such as only our firm, a single building housing our firm, the business district where our firm is located, the city where we are located, or the whole region. Within each of these areas, the severity of the disruption can also vary from minimal to severe. In a disruption to only our firm or a building housing our firm, we will transfer our operations to a local site when needed and expect to recover and resume business within 24 business hours. In a disruption affecting our business district, city, or region, we will transfer our operations to a site outside of the affected area, and recover and resume business within 72 business hours. In either situation, we plan to continue in business, transfer operations to our clearing firm if necessary, and notify you through our web site www.centerpointsecurities.com or our customer emergency number, (877) 866-9111. If the significant business disruption is so severe that it prevents us from remaining in business, we will assure our customer's prompt access to their funds and securities.

If you would like more information on our business continuity plan or have questions, you can contact us at (858) 947-3634.

Day Trading Risk Disclosure Statement & Acknowledgements

You should consider the following points before engaging in a day-trading strategy. For purposes of this notice, a "day-trading strategy" means an overall trading strategy characterized by the regular transmission by a customer of intra-day orders to effect both purchase and sale transactions in the same security or securities.

Day trading can be extremely risky. Day trading generally is not appropriate for someone of limited resources and limited investment or trading experience and low risk tolerance. You should be prepared to lose all of the funds that you use for day trading. In particular, you should not fund day-trading activities with retirement savings, student loans, second mortgages, emergency funds, funds set aside for purposes such as education or home ownership, or funds required to meet your living expenses. Further, certain evidence indicates that an investment of less than $50,000 will significantly impair the ability of a day trader to make a profit. Of course, an investment of $50,000 or more will in no way guarantee success.

Be cautious of claims of large profits from day trading. You should be wary of advertisements or other statements that emphasize the potential for large profits in day trading. Day trading can also lead to large and immediate financial losses.

Day trading requires knowledge of securities markets. Day trading requires in-depth knowledge of the securities markets and trading techniques and strategies. In attempting to profit through day trading, you must compete with professional, licensed traders employed by securities firms. You should have appropriate experience before engaging in day trading.

Day trading requires knowledge of a firm's operations. You should be familiar with a securities firm's business practices, including the operation of the firm's order execution systems and procedures. Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position quickly at a reasonable price. This can occur, for example, when the market for a stock suddenly drops, or if trading is halted due to recent news events or unusual trading activity. The more volatile a stock is, the greater the likelihood that problems may be encountered in executing a transaction. In addition to normal market risks, you may experience losses due to system failures.

Day trading will generate substantial commissions, even if the per trade cost is low. Day trading involves aggressive trading, and generally you will pay commissions on each trade. The total daily commissions that you pay on your trades will add to your losses or significantly reduce your earnings. For instance, assuming that a trade costs $16 and an average of 29 transactions are conducted per day, an investor would need to generate an annual profit of $111,360 just to cover commission expenses.

Day trading on margin or short selling may result in losses beyond your initial investment. When you day trade with funds borrowed from a firm or someone else, you can lose more than the funds you originally placed at risk. A decline in the value of the securities that are purchased may require you to provide additional funds to the firm to avoid the forced sale of those securities or other securities in your account. Short selling as part of your day-trading strategy also may lead to extraordinary losses, because you may have to purchase a stock at a very high price in order to cover a short position.

Minimum Equity Requirement

Pattern day trading rules requires that a pattern day trader have deposited in his or her account minimum equity of $25,000 on any day in which the customer day trades. The required minimum equity must be in the account prior to any day trading activities. If the customer meets the pattern day trading criteria and does not have the minimum equity in his or her account, the firm will issue an equity deficiency call and will only allow the entry of closing orders. This call is separate and distinct from the day trading margin call.

Day Trading Margin Calls

In the event a day trading customer exceeds his or her trading buying power, firms are required to issue a day trading margin call to pattern day traders that exceed their day trading buying power. Customers have five business days to deposit funds to meet this day trading margin call. The day trading account is restricted to day trading buying power of two times maintenance margin excess, beginning on the trading day after the day trading buying power is exceeded until the earlier of when the call is met or five business days. If the day trading margin call is not met by the fifth business day, the account must be further restricted to trading only on a cash basis for 90 days or until the call is met.

Two Day Holding Period Requirement

The rule requires that funds used to meet the day trading minimum equity requirement or to meet a day trading margin call must remain in the customer's account for two business days.

Potential Registration Requirements. Persons providing investment advice for others or managing securities accounts for others may need to register as either an "Investment Advisor" under the Investment Advisors Act of 1940 or as a "Broker" or "Dealer" under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Such activities may also trigger state registration requirements.

Your Broker and Your Account. CenterPoint Securities will be the introducing broker on record and can receive compensation on the trades executed on your behalf. Your day trading account may have significant execution costs and CenterPoint Securities may receive a large portion of trading commissions for this day trading strategy. Trading commissions can be significant as day trading is highly speculative and all investors who implement this type of trading strategy must have a high risk tolerance. This account will be used for unsolicited trades only. Trade execution may vary from broker to broker in the same security on the same day. Other brokers may trade in the same security on the same day; execution times and prices can vary significantly.

Acknowledgments. You acknowledge that the systems, software, and information, and any third party related goods and services provided under the terms of your account agreement are provided "as is", without warranty of any kind, express or implied, by CenterPoint Securities. You agree that CenterPoint Securities and Precision Securities shall not be liable to any entity or person, for any trading losses, lost revenues, lost profits, loss of business or information, loss of use, loss of costs or other savings, or any direct, incidental, indirect, damages suffered, or costs or expenses incurred, by any entity or person, of any kind or nature, or from any cause whatsoever, arising out of or relating to the furnishing, performance, maintenance of, use of or inability to use any of the system, software, and information, or any third party related goods and services provided as part of the servicing of your account.

Margin Disclosure Statement

Your brokerage firm is furnishing this document to you to provide some basic facts about purchasing securities on margin, and to alert you to the risks involved with trading securities in a margin account. Before trading stocks in a margin account, you should carefully review the margin agreement provided by your firm. Consult your firm regarding any questions or concerns you may have with your margin accounts.

When you purchase securities, you may pay for the securities in full or you may borrow part of the purchase price from your brokerage firm. If you choose to borrow funds from your firm, you will open a margin account with the firm. The securities purchased are the firm's collateral for the loan to you. If the securities in your account decline in value, so does the value of the collateral supporting your loan, and, as a result, the firm can take action, such as issue a margin call and/or sell securities or other assets in any of your accounts held with the member, in order to maintain the required equity in the account.

It is important that you fully understand the risks involved in trading securities on margin. These risks include the following:

- You can lose more funds than you deposit in the margin account.
A decline in the value of securities that are purchased on margin may require you to provide additional funds to the firm that has made the loan to avoid the forced sale of those securities or other securities or assets in your account(s).
- The firm can force the sale of securities or other assets in your account(s).
If the equity in your account falls below the maintenance margin requirements, or the firm's higher "house" requirements, the firm can sell the securities or other assets in any of your account held at the firm to cover the margin deficiency. You also will be responsible for any short fall in the account after such a sale.
- The firm can sell your securities or other assets without contacting you.
Some investors mistakenly believe that a firm must contact them for a margin call to be valid, and that the firm cannot liquidate securities or other assets in their accounts to meet the call unless the firm has contacted them first. This is not the case. Most firms will attempt to notify their customers of margin calls, but they are not required to do so. However, even if a firm has contacted a customer and provided a specific date by which the customer can meet a margin call, the firm can still take necessary steps to protect its financial interests, including immediately selling the securities without notice to the customer.
- You are not entitled to choose which securities or other assets in your account(s) are liquidated or sold to meet a margin call
Because the securities are collateral for the margin loan, the firm has the right to decide which security to sell in order to protect its interests.
- The firm can increase its "house" maintenance margin requirements at any time and is not required to provide you advance written notice.
These changes in firm policy often take effect immediately and may result in the issuance of a maintenance margin call. Your failure to satisfy the call may cause the member to liquidate or sell securities in your account(s).
- You are not entitled to an extension of time on a margin call.
While an extension of time to meet margin requirements may be available to customers under certain conditions, a customer does not have a right to the extension.

You are receiving this disclosure document because you are opening a day trading account with your broker. Day trading accounts require that your brokerage account be opened as a margin account. It is important that you read and understand the terms and conditions of a margin account. If there are aspects of the margin agreement, or of opening a margin account, that you do not understand, you should immediately contact your brokerage representative.

Stock Locate Agreement

The purpose of this Stock Locate Agreement (the “Agreement”) is to ensure that you understand and agree to the terms and conditions associated with selling securities short. Through Precision Securities, a FINRA registered broker dealer, CenterPoint Securities (“Broker”) offers its clients the ability to enter short sale orders in securities that are not on the easy to borrow list (“HTB Stocks”) at Electronic Transaction Clearing, Wedbush Securities, Vision Financial Markets and Clear Street (collectively, the “Clearing Firms”). This Agreement is to be reviewed and executed in conjunction with the Clearing Firm’s Margin Agreement, which is included in the new account document package. Should any conflicts arise, the terms and conditions of the Margin Agreement supersede this Agreement.

Locates

By entering into this Agreement, the Broker will grant you the ability to locate HTB Stocks away from the Clearing Firms. Your acceptance of a locate for a short sale order does not guarantee that the necessary shares will be delivered to the Clearing Firms for settlement of your short sale transaction. The Broker or the Clearing Firm, at its sole discretion, may elect to buy in some or all of the shares necessary to cover your short position at any time, including on the trade date in which your short position was established, and at any time or date thereafter. By entering into a short position, you agree that you take on full financial and market risk, including the risk that you may incur losses as a result of the Broker buying in your short position.

HTB Fees

By entering into this Agreement, you acknowledge that you may incur significant fees by selling securities short in your account. When you accept a locate for a HTB Stock, you will be charged a locate fee based on the price per share quoted and the quantity of shares accepted (“Locate Fee”). The Locate Fee is charged the moment you accept a locate on a HTB Stock, even if you never enter an order to sell short the located security. If you hold a located HTB Stock overnight, you will incur an overnight fee (“Overnight Fee”). The Overnight Fee is in addition to the Locate Fee and is calculated as a product of the price of the initial Locate Fee multiplied by the amount of nights between trade date and settlement date. For example, if you locate a HTB Stock and the Locate Fee is $50, holding that stock overnight on a Monday will result in the initial $50 charge for the Locate Fee and, assuming a Wednesday settlement date, a $100 Overnight Fee ($50 times two nights between trade date and settlement date). This same formula creates a higher multiple when a weekend falls between trade date and settlement date. For example, the Overnight Fee for a locate obtained on Friday will typically be the Locate Fee multiplied by four (four nights between Friday trade date and Tuesday settlement date). The Locate Fee and Overnight Fee will be billed daily and will appear on your statement collectively as “HTB Fees.” HTB Fees are separate from the short interest fees that the Clearing Firms may charge your account for holding short positions overnight. The amount of the Locate Fee is determined by the broker dealer that is providing the locate. However, the Broker does participate in volume discounts offered by the locate provider when applicable.

Short Interest Fees

The Clearing Firms will charge you short interest fees that are separate and unrelated to the HTB Fees charged by the Broker. The Clearing Firms calculate short interest, and the total charges are dependent upon various factors such as the size of your short position, the price of the underlying security, the number of days between settlement of the short sale transaction and settlement of the buy to cover transaction, and the short interest rate. The short interest rate is variable and may change from day to day without notice. Increases in the short interest rates may be extreme, especially when there is considerable volatility in a given security. Furthermore, the Clearing Firms do not give advanced notice to the Broker when a short interest rate will be changing. You can get the short interest rate for a given symbol on a specific date by contacting the Broker. However, the rate provided to you will only be applicable for that given date and may change the following day. In the event that an exchange or regulator halts a stock in which you hold a short position, you will continue to accrue short interest fees until the stock resumes trading regardless of the length of time that the stock is halted. The Broker may restrict the amount of assets that can be withdrawn from the account in situations where the account is holding a halted stock short.

By signing below, you acknowledge and agree to the terms and conditions described herein.

Without limitation of the foregoing, we have no responsibility for transmissions that are inaccurate or not received by us, and may execute any Transaction on the terms actually received by us. You understand and agree that under no circumstances will you use the Service to engage in naked short selling. You agree to specifically designate any orders to sell a security which you do not own as a short sale, and you understand that you will mark such orders as a short sale. You agree that any order which is not specifically designated as a short sale is a sale of securities owned by you and that you will deliver the securities on or before settlement date, if not already in the account. In the event you fail to make such a delivery in the time required, we are authorized to either borrow or buy back such securities as necessary to make delivery and settle the Transaction. 8. LIMITATIONS OF LIABILITY. (a) We, our managing directors, partners, officers, directors, affiliates, members, employees and agents (each of whom is a "Related Party," except that in no event shall you be deemed a "Related Party") have no liabilities, contingent or otherwise, to you or to third parties, for the correctness, quality, accuracy, security, completeness, reliability, performance, timeliness, pricing or continued availability of the Service, or for delays or omissions of the Service, or for the failure of any connection or communications service to provide or maintain your access to the Service, or for any interruption in or disruption of your access or any erroneous communications. 9. REORGANIZATION. From time to time positions you hold in your account may undergo a reorganization, resulting in stock dividends, cash dividends, stock splits, reverse stock splits, new share issuance or symbol change, or various other reorganizations that substantially change the disposition of the securities held in your account. You are responsible for understanding the terms and conditions of any reorganization, including, but not limited to, the effective date of any such reorganization, share quantities as a result of any stock split, reverse split or stock dividend, and any liability you may have as the result of maintaining a short position in a security that undergoes a reorganization. 10. DATA AND INFORMATION. With respect to any market data or other information that we or any third party service provider provide to you in connection with your use of the Service, (i) we and any such provider are not responsible or liable if any such data or information is inaccurate or incomplete in any respect; (ii) we and any such provider are not responsible or liable for any actions that you take or do not take based on such data or information; (iii)

you will use such data and information solely for the purposes set forth in this Agreement and any other agreement between you and us that applies to Transactions; (iv) such data or information is proprietary to us and any such provider and you will not retransmit or disclose such data or information to third parties; and (v) you will use such data and information solely in compliance with applicable laws, rules and regulations.

11. SUITABILITY. You will make your own independent decision to access or use the Service or to execute any Transaction and you acknowledge and agree that the Service does not and will not serve as the primary basis for any or your investment decisions concerning your accounts. We do not, and will not under any circumstances, solicit Transactions. All transactions entered by you through the service will be unsolicited orders. You are solely responsible for the determination of suitability of your Transactions and suitability as it pertains to the use of the Service. We do not and will not provide you with legal, tax, estate planning, accounting advice or advice regarding the suitability, profitability or appropriateness for you of any security, investment, financial product, investment strategy or other matter. You acknowledge that none of the information that may be provided by us in connection with the Service is intended as tax, legal or investment advice. YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THAT YOU ALONE ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR DETERMINING THE SUITABILITY OF INVESTMENT CHOICES AND INVESTMENT STRATEGIES IN LIGHT OF YOUR PARTICULAR CIRCUMSTANCES. YOU UNDERSTAND THAT WE ASSUME NO RESPONSIBILITY FOR SUCH DETERMINATIONS.

1. APPLICABLE RULES AND REGULATIONS

All of your transactions shall be subject to the constitution, rules, regulations, customs, and usages of the exchange or market and its clearing house, if any, where executed by your broker, or its agents, including its subsidiaries and affiliates.

2. DEFINITIONS

For purposes of this agreement "securities, commodities, and other property," as used herein shall include, but not be limited to money, securities, and commodities of every kind and nature and all contracts and options relating thereto, whether for present or future delivery.

3. LIEN

All of your securities, commodities, and other property, which ETC may at any time be carrying, or which may at any time be in ETC's possession or under ETC's control, shall be subject to a general lien and security interest in ETC's favor for the discharge of all of your indebtedness and other obligations to ETC, without regard to ETC having made any advances in connection with such securities and other property and without regard to the number of accounts you may have with ETC. In enforcing its lien, ETC shall have the discretion to determine which securities and property are to be sold and which contracts are to be closed.

4. LIQUIDATION

If, in its discretion, ETC considers it necessary for protection to require additional collateral, or in the event that a petition in bankruptcy is filed, or the appointment of a receiver is filed by or against you, or an attachment is levied against your accounts, or in the event of death (in case of partnerships), ETC shall have the right to sell any or all securities, commodities, and other property in your accounts with ETC, to buy any or all securities, commodities, and other property which may be short in such accounts, to cancel any open orders and to close any or all outstanding contracts, all without demand for margin or additional margin, notice of sale or purchase, or other notice or advertisement. Any such sales or purchases may be made at ETC's discretion on any exchange or other market where such business is usually transacted, or at public auction or private sale, and ETC may be the purchaser for its own account. It being understood that a prior demand, or call, or prior notice of the time and place of such sale or purchase shall not be considered a waiver of ETC's right to sell or buy without demand or notice.

5. PAYMENT OF INDEBTEDNESS UPON DEMAND AND LIABILITY FOR COSTS OF COLLECTION

You shall at all times be liable for the payment upon demand of any debit balance or other obligations owing in any of your accounts with ETC, and you shall be liable to ETC for any deficiency remaining in any such accounts in the event of the liquidation thereof, in whole or in part, by ETC or by you; and, you shall make payments of such obligations and indebtedness upon demand. The reasonable cost and expense of collection of the debit balance, recovery of securities, and any unpaid deficiency in your accounts with ETC, including, but not limited to attorney's fees, incurred and payable or paid by ETC shall be payable to ETC by you.

6. PLEDGE OF SECURITIES

All securities, commodities, and other property now or hereafter held, carried, or maintained by ETC in its possession in any of your accounts may be pledged and re-pledged by ETC from time to time, without notice to you, either separately or in common with other such securities, commodities, and other property for any amount due in your accounts, or for any greater amount, and ETC may do so without retaining into its possession or control for delivery, a like amount of similar securities, commodities, or other property.

7. MARGIN REQUIREMENTS, CREDIT CHARGES, AND CREDIT INVESTIGATION

You will at all times maintain such securities, commodities, and other property in your accounts for margin purposes as ETC shall require from time to time via a margin call or other request, and the monthly debit balances or adjusted balances in your accounts with ETC shall be charged, in accordance with ETC practice, with interest at a rate permitted by laws of the State of California. It is understood that the interest charge made to your account at the close of a charge period will be added to the opening balance for the next charge period unless paid. You acknowledge receipt of the Disclosure Statement, which explains the conditions under which interest can be charged to your account, the annual rate of interest, how debit balances are determined, and the methods of computing interest. You further acknowledge receipt of the separate Margin Disclosure Statement, which provides some basic facts about purchasing securities on margin and alerts you to the risks involved with trading securities in a margin account. In regard to margin calls, whether for maintenance or any other margin call, in lieu of immediate liquidations, ETC, may permit you a period of time to satisfy a call. This time period shall not in any way waive or diminish ETC's right in its sole discretion, to shorten the time period in which you may satisfy the call, including one already outstanding, or to demand that a call be satisfied immediately. Nor does such practice waive or diminish the right of ETC to sell out positions to satisfy the call, which can be as high as the full indebtedness owed by you. Margin requirements may be established and changed by ETC in its sole discretion and judgment without notice to you. ETC may exchange credit information about you with others. ETC may request a credit report on you and upon request; ETC will state the name and address of the consumer reporting agency that furnished it. If ETC extends, updates, or renews your credit, ETC may request a new credit report without notifying you.

Free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at Investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing.

Relationships and Services. “What investment services and advice can you provide me?”

- When you open a brokerage account, you will pay us a transaction-based fee, generally referred to as a commission, every time you buy or sell a security.
- We do not make recommendations or provide advice to clients. You are responsible for selecting the investments and transactions for your account.
- We can offer you additional services to assist you in executing your investment strategy and monitoring the performance of your account. Generally, you will incur additional fees for these services.
- If your investment strategy involves engaging in short sales of stocks, we offer locate services to facilitate these short sales. You will incur additional fees for locates and for borrowed stock.
- Your account custodian will deliver account statements to you electronically or in paper form at least quarterly.

Our Obligations to You. We must abide by certain laws and regulations in our interactions with you.

- We do not make recommendations about buying, selling or holding specific investments. When we provide any service to you, we must treat you fairly and comply with a number of specific obligations. Unless we agree otherwise, we are not required to monitor your portfolio or investments on an ongoing basis. Additionally, we do not have any investment authority over your account.

Conflicts of Interest. What are the most common conflicts of interest in your brokerage accounts?

- Our interests can conflict with your interests. The fees that you will be charged are based directly on the transactions in your account. You will incur more fees if you actively trade in your account. We therefore have an incentive to encourage you to engage in transactions.

Fees and Costs. Fees and costs affect the value of your account over time. Your fees will vary based on your trading activity. Please contact us for personalized information on the fees and costs that you will pay.

- Your fees are based on transactions conducted in your account and not the value of your account.
- With stocks or exchange-traded funds, this fee is typically a separate commission. With other investments, such as bonds, this fee might be part of the price you pay for the investment (called a “mark-up” or “mark down”).
- Our fees vary and are negotiable. The amount you pay will depend, for example, on how much you buy or sell, what types of investments you buy or sell, and what kind of account you have with us.
- You may be charged additional fees, such as custodial fees, market data fees, routing fees, options fees, and/or trading platform fees.
- You will pay fees whether you make or lose money in your account.

Compare with Typical Advisory Accounts.

You could alternatively open an advisory account with an investment adviser which has material differences that you should understand as follows:

- Advisers provide advice on a regular basis and are held to a fiduciary standard that covers the entire advisory relationship. They discuss your investment goals, design with you a strategy to achieve your investment goals, and regularly monitor your account.
- You can choose an account that allows the adviser to buy and sell investments in your account without asking you in advance (a “discretionary account”) or the adviser may give you advice and you decide what investments to buy and sell (a “non-discretionary account”).
- If you were to pay an asset-based fee in an advisory account, you would pay the fee periodically even if you do not buy or sell. You may also choose to work with an investment adviser who provides investment advice for an hourly fee, or provides a financial plan for a one-time fee.

3. What additional costs should I expect in connection with my account?
4. Tell me how you and your firm make money in connection with my account. Do you or your firm receive any payments from anyone besides me in connection with my investments?
5. What are the most common conflicts of interest in your brokerage accounts? Explain how you will address those conflicts when providing services to my account.
6. Do you or your firm have a disciplinary history? For what type of conduct?
7. Who is the primary contact person for my account? What can you tell me about his or her legal obligations to me? If I have concerns about how this person is treating me, who can I talk to?
